

Analysis 21 Limited

Analysis for the 21st century

A21 News

Volume 1, Issue 1

Newsletter Date: April 2009

Website Services Business Line Launched

Analysis 21 has launched its own low cost website services business line. With pricing aimed at small to medium companies, the business line looks to build upon the already successful financial services consultancy arm.

The company is looking to expand in this area during 2009 and is looking for sales staff to take forward the proposition that they have developed. If you are interested in joining the team at Analysis21, please send a copy of your CV to staff@analysis21.co.uk.

Analysis 21 intend to reduce the cost of website production for companies. They have already invested a considerable amount of time and money in developing their approach to capturing client requirements and 'making dreams become reality'.

Further details on the business line will be provided in the newsletter over the coming months.

We are also looking for feedback on the service that they have received and how the service could be improved.

If you are interested in taking part in one of our case studies please contact us at casestudy@analysis21.co.uk.

2009 will hopefully see the expansion of Analysis 21's web presence businesses to work with us as case studies to provide

Special points of interest:

- New Business Line
- Sales Staff Required

Basic Website – What Are We Offering?

Each month this newsletter will provide an overview of one of the services provided by Analysis 21. This month's feature looks at our basic website offering.

Our basic website provides more than most low cost websites that are available on the market. Not only will the client receive an attractive and professional website, but also included in the package is the creation of a logo for the company and also an admin section that will allow clients to easily maintain links, downloads and news sections on their site. Furthermore, the client is able to review the contact information that has been entered by customers on the 'contact us' form. This information can also be downloaded to a file for further analysis / mail merge use etc. by the client.

For customers requiring further information on this service, please contact us either by email on websales@analysis21.co.uk or by phoning 07971 223020.